DETAILED ACTION

The request filed on 12/10/02 for a Request for Continued Examination (RCE) under 37 CFR 1.114 based on parent Application No. 09/103,110 is acceptable and a RCE has been established. An action on the RCE follows.

Double Patenting

1. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 25-36 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of double patenting over claims 1-3 of U. S. Patent No. 6,250,934 since the claims, if allowed, would improperly extend the "right to exclude" already granted in the patent.

The subject matter claimed in the instant application is fully disclosed in the patent and is covered by the patent since the patent and the application are claiming common subject matter, as follows: applicant uses the same term "a first receptacle" or "a casing" both performs the same function of "receiving" or "encasing" an IC package. Yet, applicant uses the term "upper opening" as a "first opening" and "back opening" as a "second opening". The first receptacle or "casing" defines the first and second openings that used to cover and protect the IC package when the IC package is inserted into "the first receptacle or casing"

Furthermore, there is no apparent reason why applicant was prevented from presenting claims corresponding to those of the instant application during prosecution of the application which matured into a patent. See In re Schneller, 397 F.2d 350, 158 USPQ 210 (CCPA 1968). See also MPEP § 804.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 25-36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Farnworth et al. (U. S. Patent 5,892,660) in view of Ringer et al. (U. S. Patent 5,408,386).

As to claims 25-30, Farnworth discloses an apparatus for use in a data processing device as shown in figures 1-12, comprising:

an integrated circuit (IC) package (10-figure 1, column 4, line 8, and 60-figure 3, column 4, line 41) having a plurality of leads (13, column 4, line 14) from the IC package;

a first receptacle (40, column 4, line 32) for receiving the IC package and provide a physical and electrostatic discharge protection for the IC package, the first receptacle including a first opening (a front surface opening of a chamber 41) to receive the plurality of leads (13) when the IC package is inserted into the first receptacle through a second opening (a bottom opening of a side wall 44) disposed away from the first opening; the IC package inserted into the first receptacle (40) from a bottom of the first receptacle using a rotating movement; at least one stop (142, 144-figure 9) disposed at the second opening to securely hold the IC package within the first receptacle and a second receptacle (202-figure 11, column 6, line 39) disposed on the data processing device for receiving the first receptacle (200, column 6, line 38), the second receptacle having a plurality of contacts (connector 204, column 6, line 40), wherein the plurality leads of the IC package (10; 60) directly contact, via the first opening, with the plurality of contacts of the second receptacle respectively when the first receptacle is inserted into the second receptacle.

Farnworth does not teach the leads extended from the IC package. Ringer shows an IC package (13) having extended leads (15) connected to contacts (41-figure 4) of a second receptacle (12, 14-figures 1-2).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have teaching of Ringer to employ the apparatus of Farnworth in order to provide electrical connections between the IC package fixed into a receptacle of a computer.

Regarding claims 31-36, the method steps are necessitated by the apparatus structure as disclosed by Farnworth in view of Ringer.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 25-36 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
